

Shrine of the Christ Child Message

9/25/14, 3:00 am

My dear little one, I woke you tonight to share My words to you from My Holy Spirit.

Soon a rumble will be heard across your land that will tear it in two. Cries of anguish will fill the air and all who love Me must help one another. There will be panic, terror and much chaos because following certain events a state of fear and mayhem will prevail. There will be no safety in the streets, people will fight and loot, and further destroy one another in fear and panic. Things will happen and you must be ready to help calm them that I will be sending to you.

Destruction is imminent. Your nation will be crippled soon by one disaster after another. Food will be depleted in your stores from draught and famine.

The powers of your country will be defeated and enemies of freedom will take it over. At first, people will think that they are helping them but, the men will be forced into labor and the women and children will be sent to detention centers. Evil will gain on My people and force them into submission. My faithful ones, you must band together. You will be living together, growing your own food and hiding from the powers that will be taking over your country. Your cities will be full of evil. There is no time now to sit and rest. Destruction is imminent. You must prepare now for you all must live together for a time before I will multiply what you have.

There will come a time when I will no longer be at the alters in your churches, but you know that I will always be with you and you will have Me in Adoration. I will never leave you. Each one must be a living tabernacle which carries the Presence of My Son to those who seek Him. I will send you a holy priest so My Holy Eucharist will be with you always. Do not worry just pray and trust!

It is only a matter of minutes now before chaos erupts. Events will occur quickly once they begin. The good news is that suddenly a great miracle of My Father's mercy will be upon the whole world. Each will see their sinfulness and their soul and each child will know exactly where they stand with God their Father. The world does not know the shock that they are about to see. So many will not understand. It will be My chosen ones that help them and bring them back to Me. Once they seek forgiveness and reconciliation they will need your help and your support. Love each other as I do. Pray, My child for the hour has come. Be ready. You will also see your loved ones come to Me and be healed.

I bless you for this time. My words tonight are not meant to give you fear, they are to help you be ready for the time I have prepared you for. It is here and now. Pray and trust and continue to write My Holy Words that I place in your heart and mind.

I bless you, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.
